BASEL, Switzerland, Nov. 7, 2018 /PRNewswire/ -- Myovant Sciences, Ltd. (NYSE: MYOV), a clinical-stage biopharmaceutical company focused on developing and commercializing innovative therapies for women's health and endocrine diseases, today announced that Kim Sablich, formerly Vice President of Primary Care Marketing in the United States for GlaxoSmithKline (GSK), will join Myovant Sciences as Chief Commercial Officer, and Jeff Nornhold, formerly Senior Vice President of Technical Operations for Impax Laboratories (now Amneal Pharmaceuticals, Inc.), has joined Myovant as Senior Vice President of Pharmaceutical Operations & Development. In addition, Myovant has appointed industry veterans Myrtle Potter, Mark Guinan, and Frank Torti, M.D., to Myovant's Board of Directors, and Ms. Potter has been appointed Chairman of the Board.

"With top-line data from each of our five ongoing global Phase 3 clinical trials expected in 2019, we are pleased to announce the strengthening of our management team and Board as we look forward to the next stage of Myovant's growth," said Lynn Seely, M.D., President and CEO of Myovant. "Ms. Potter's decades of commercial experience perfectly position her to chair Myovant's Board of diverse industry and healthcare leaders. Together, we are committed to achieving our mission of becoming the leading company in women's health and endocrine diseases."

Additions to Myovant's Management Team

Ms. Sablich previously served as Vice President, Primary Care Marketing in the United States for GSK, where she was responsible for revenue forecasts, product strategies and execution plans for a broad portfolio of products including Advair®, Breo, Anoro®, Incruse®, Tanzeum™, Levitra®, and Trellegy. Prior to that, she was Vice President, Global Medicines Commercialization in the United Kingdom, and before that, Vice President, Vaccines Commercial Strategies. Before joining GSK, Ms. Sablich spent 15 years at Merck, where she held positions of increasing responsibility in the commercial organization across sales, product management, pricing/access, and customer insights, with a focus on the cardiovascular, respiratory and vaccines business areas. Ms. Sablich has extensive experience in direct-to-consumer marketing, having led the development of consumer strategies and national multi-channel campaigns for multiple products. She is currently a member of the Board of Directors of AllerGenis LLC. She earned a B.A. from Denison University and an M.B.A. from The Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Nornhold previously served as Senior Vice President of Technical Operations for Impax Laboratories (now Amneal Pharmaceuticals, Inc.), where he was responsible for Impax's manufacturing, supply chain, quality and technical operations. Prior to that, he served as Impax's Senior Vice President, Global Quality Affairs, and was responsible for establishing a sustainable quality and compliance program. Prior to Impax, Mr. Nornhold served as Vice President, Quality Operations – International for Watson Pharmaceuticals, Inc. (now Allergan PLC), and was responsible for ex-U.S. manufacturing sites for both dosage and active pharmaceutical ingredients. While at Watson, he also served as Vice President, U.S. Quality Operations, where he led the development and execution of quality initiatives for all U.S. sites. Earlier in his career, he held numerous leadership positions in the pharmaceutical industry. Mr. Nornhold earned a B.S. in chemistry from Bowling Green State University and an M.B.A. from the University of Southern California Marshall School of Business.

About Myovant Sciences

Myovant Sciences is a clinical-stage biopharmaceutical company focused on developing and commercializing innovative therapies for the treatment of women's health and endocrine diseases. Myovant's lead product candidate is relugolix, an oral, once-daily small molecule that acts as a GnRH receptor antagonist. Myovant has initiated three clinical programs for relugolix consisting of five international Phase 3 clinical trials, two in women with heavy menstrual bleeding associated with uterine fibroids (LIBERTY 1 and 2), two in women with pain associated with endometriosis (SPIRIT 1 and 2), and one in men with advanced prostate cancer (HERO). Myovant is also developing MVT-602, an oligopeptide kisspeptin-1 receptor agonist, that is in Phase 2a development for the treatment of female infertility as part of assisted reproduction. Takeda Pharmaceuticals International AG granted Myovant an exclusive, worldwide license to develop and commercialize relugolix (excluding Japan and certain other Asian countries where Takeda retains exclusive rights) and an exclusive license to develop and commercialize MVT-602 in all countries worldwide. Over time, Myovant intends to expand its development pipeline to include other potential treatments for women's health and endocrine diseases.
